Looking Over Kingston's New Charter Proposals

The following series of articles will present in complete form the proposed City Charter as developed by the Charter Revision Committee.

For a number of months a charter commission composed of Aldermen John Schwenk, Paul Zucca, Jacob H. Trenner, Jr., and Joseph Eptelis, together with Jay Terry, president of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association, William B. Byrne, Walter E. Joyce, Corporation Counsel M. V. Cahill and Mayor C. J. Heiselman, has been writing a plan to modernize the city government and do away with much of the alleged inefficiency that exists at present under the board system. The results of the commission efforts will be found in the following series of articles, of which this is the tenth.

ARTICLE XIX

WATER DEPARTMENT

Section 139. Supervision of Water Department.

- 140. Water Rates.
- 141. Disbursement and record of Revenues.
- 142. Separate Records to be kept for Water Department.
- 143. Destruction of Water Department's property a misdemeanor.
- 144. Title to lands, etc.
- 145. Acquisition of lands.
- 146. Water rents to be lien on property.
- 147. Delinquent water rents.
- 148. Adding unpaid water rents to the tax bill.
- 149. Discharge of lien of water rents and redemption.
- 150. Saving clause.

Sec. 139. SUPERVISION OF WATER DEPARTMENT. The Superintendent of the Water Department, under the direction of and subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Public Works, shall have supervision of the Department of Water and shall exercise the care and control of all properties of the city in any way connected with the Department of Water now owned or hereafter acquired by the city and perform such other duties as are now, or may hereafter be, required of him by law or ordinance of the city, not inconsistent with the provisions hereof.

Sec. 140. WATER RATES. The Board of Estimate, with the approval of the Common Council, shall fix, make and determine all water rates.

Sec. 141. DISBURSEMENT AND RECORD OF REVENUES. Water rents and penalties and the proceeds of bonds and other evidences of indebtedness issued for water extension purposes shall be collected by the Commissioner of Finance and shall be credited to the water fund account, and shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of the ordinary maintenance and management of the Water Department, or the improvement and extension thereof, and if more than sufficient for that purpose the balance thereof shall be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of any outstanding bonds, certificates of indebtedness, or other indebtedness incurred for or on behalf of the Water Department, and for no other purpose. When a sufficient amount has been accumulated to pay all outstanding indebtedness incurred for or on behalf of the Water Department the over-plus may be used for any lawful municipal purpose.

Sec. 142. SEPARATE RECORDS TO BE KEPT FOR WATER DEPARTMENT. The Commissioner of Finance shall keep separate records showing the cost of construction and maintenance of the water works, and of extending the same, and of all its collections, receipts, expenditures and proceedings.

Sec. 143. DESTRUCTION OF WATER DEPARTMENT'S PROPERTY A MISDEMEANOR. Any willful act whereby the water works, or any property, apparatus or appliances pertaining thereto, shall be injured, or the supply of water obstructed, impaired or made less pure, shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and the person or persons convicted thereof shall be punished accordingly.

Sec. 144. TITLE TO LANDS, ETC. The title of all lands, easements and property acquired for the purposes of this Article shall vest in the City of Kingston. The Common Council may take deeds of said lands and easements in the name of the City, as grantee, and the deeds shall state the purposes for which said lands or easements are conveyed.

Sec. 145. ACQUISITION OF LANDS. The Common Council may acquire by purchase or proceedings for the condemnation of real property, pursuant to the condemnation laws, any lands, property, franchises, easements, water rights, rights of flowage, dam, water plant, water mains, laterals and appurtenances within the County of Ulster whether owned or possessed by individuals, or water or other companies organized under the laws of this State, or the Common Council, upon the written request of the Board of Estimate, may acquire title to such lands, property, franchises, easements, water rights, rights of flowage, dam, water plant, water mains, laterals and appurtenances, or any of them pursuant to this Charter, except that the cost and expense thereof shall be paid from the water fund account.

Sec. 146. WATER RENTS TO BE LIEN ON PROPERTY. All water rents, hereafter fixed and determined by the Board of Estimate, and approved by the Common Council, and the interest and charges thereon, shall be a lien upon the real estate in said city against which, or against the owner or occupant of which, the same may be laid, levied or charged by the Board of Estimate.

Sec. 147. DELINQUENT WATER RENTS. The Commissioner of Finance shall, on or before the first day of December in each year, transmit to the Common Council of said city a statement of all water rents, theretofore laid, levied or charged by said Board of Estimate and approved by the Common Council, against any real estate or the owner or occupant thereof and which shall then be unpaid and in arrears, together with a description of the real estate against which such water rents shall have been laid, levied or charged, which statement shall be subscribed and verified by the Commissioner of Finance.

Sec. 148. ADDING UNPAID WATER RENTS TO THE TAX BILL. The Common Council, on receiving such statement so subscribed and certified, shall at the next annual tax levy for City, County and State purposes, cause the amounts of such unpaid water rents, and penalties with a six per cent fee on the several amounts, to be levied upon the respective parcels of real estate upon which such unpaid water rents were respectively laid, levied or charged, in addition to the annual tax levied by said Common Council for City, County and State purposes, and the same proceedings shall be had for the collection of such unpaid water rents, including the sale of the real estate against which such unpaid water rents may have been laid, levied or charged, as are authorized and provided by this Charter for the collection of the taxes levied by said Common Council in said annual tax levy.

Sec. 149. DISCHARGE OF LIEN OF WATER RENTS AND REDEMPTION. The owner or any person interested in or having a lien upon any real estate included in such statement by the Commissioner of Finance, may at any time before the sale of such lands discharge such water rents and stay all proceedings against such real estate by payment of the amount of such water rents laid, levied or charged thereto, with six per cent interest and accrued expenses, and after the sale thereof may redeem the same in the same manner as if such lands were sold for taxes levied by the Common Council for City, County and State purposes.

Sec. 150. SAVING CLAUSE. The Department of Water is to retain all the powers of the former Board of Water Commissioners not inconsistent with the provisions of this Article and the ordinances of the Common Council.

New Survey Being Made By State Highway Men For E. Chester By-Pass

Alignment of Proposed By-Pass for 9-W Has To Be Changed as Conservation Commission Denies Right to Cross Its Lands.

MAY NOT DELAY ROAD

If Alternative Alignment Can Be Obtained There May Be No Delay in Building Road.

The state highway department had survey parties busy on Wednesday and Thursday seeking to run a new alignment for the proposed East Chester street by-pass to hook on to Route 9-W just beyond the Saugerties road crossing.

Plans had all been completed for the building of the new road and it had been advertised for bids to be opened this month at Albany, when difficulty was encountered by the State Conservation Commission refusing the right of way through about 600 feet of land owned by the commission in the rear of the City Home, just outside the city limits. The refusal to release enough of this land so that the road could be built across the property is said to be due to the fact that the land in question is included in the state forest preserve and no timber may be cut in the preserve. In order to build the new road over the commission's land it would be necessary to cut down a few scrub trees.

The survey being made is planned to run the road around the conservation commission land, and if it can be done it is expected that the construction of the road will not be withdrawn from the letting this month, but that a supplemental contract will be made for the new alignment.

As the building of this road is a $168,000 project and will employ a large number of unemployed men from Kingston and the county it is hoped that the new alignment made necessary by the state conservation's refusal to release a right of way will not further delay the building of the road and that construction will start early this summer.

EAST SIDE YOUTH LOST SUBSTANTIAL FORTUNE

New York, April 5 (P).—Nello Nepola is one of the richest young men on the lower east side—on paper.

The courts awarded him $35,000 when he was 19, because an automobile struck him and a leg required amputation. His lawyer took $1,000 and, at the court's suggestion his mother turned over the remaining $22,000 to the city chamberlain for safekeeping. The law provides that the road and that construction will start early this summer.

BEER HAS CREATED $2,000,000,000 IN BUSINESS

New York, April 5 (P).—The first two years of beer's return, the United States Brewers Association estimated today, have directly created $2,000,000 in new business and have enriched federal and state treasuries by $435,000,000.

With the second anniversary of legalization next Sunday, beer of 3.2 or higher alcohol content is now sold in 46 states.

Alabama and Georgia are the remaining "bone dry" states.

The association estimates that 50,000 barrels will be sold in 1935.

For the first two years, the association reports a production of 27,000,000 barrels of 3.2 and higher.

Annual consumption is still far below the pre-prohibition record.

The bureau of internal revenue records for the fiscal year of 1913-1914, ending June 30, 1914, show a consumption of 66,150,000 barrels.

Just A Year Ago Today...

United States death toll from wide spread floods reaches 28 with property damage estimated at well over a million dollars.

New York state racing bill, legalizing betting and reading control of the state's five racing tracks, is overwhelmingly approved by the Senate. Governor Lehman to approve it and Governor Lehman to sign it in day.

Temperature: Lowest 28, highest 44.

Montgomery, Ala., April 5 (P).—Governor Bibb Graves today announced that he had written circuit judges, solicitors and jury commissioners that the United States Supreme Court decision in the Scottsboro case meant the names of jurors must be placed in the jury boxes in the state.

Work-Relief Agreement Is Approved by House

Washington, April 5 (P).—The conference agreement on the $4,880,000,000 work-relief program was approved today by the House.

Senate action alone remained to speed the bill to President Roosevelt.

Only an hour's debate preceded House acceptance of the conference report containing the compromise agreement on the controversial work issue in the provision allocating $800,000,000 for non-federal projects.

House clerks prepared immediately to carry the huge money bill to the other end of the Capitol where Senate leaders wanted to press its approval.

The Democratic chief obviously was pleased at the "compromise" reached over the provision which would have required that one-third of the $900,000,000 allocated for non-federal projects should go to "direct work."

They were particularly pleased that the work requirement had been reduced to 25 per cent and the word "direct" eliminated, claiming that there were few types of projects on which "indirect" work would not exceed that figure.

Less than a hundred members were present when the conference report was brought up, but the big hall filled rapidly as debate began.

State Investigation Of State Relief Looms In the Legislature

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (P).—Charges of "graft, grave abuses and scandalous conditions" in the handling of the millions of dollars poured out to aid New York's jobless spurred legislators today as they considered demands for a sweeping investigation of the state's relief setup.

Two Democratic-sponsored resolutions proposing comprehensive studies of the entire subject of public relief administration await action.

One offered by Senate Leader John J. Dunnigan and the other by Senator John J. McNaboe, both of

New York, April 5 (P).—Kept secret until today, the Nazi suggestions were disclosed with obvious intent as news arrived from France of the massing of French troops at the powerful forts facing the demilitarized Rhineland. In this area Germany maintains only a well-trained police force.

At the same time General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Reich aviation minister, in an ironic address invited Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, who is to visit Moscow later this month, to leave his train at Berlin instead of continuing to the Soviet capital "if the French want peace."

Officials made plain that Germany's willingness to forego her territorial expansion ambitions for the next decade did not signify she would abandon them entirely.

They said that despite Nazi effervescence along the eastern frontier notably in the vicinity of Danzig and Memel they did not regard the present as the time to discuss frontier relations in view of Europe's agitated state.

Offer Is Not Forever.

"Hitler's offer to recognize the treaty of Versailles frontiers for at least 10 years," the official sources said, "does not mean we renounce frontier revision forever. We merely hope the principal changes can be made peacefully later."

In connection with the non-aggression proposals, it was said Hitler had informed Sir John that Reich would undertake pledges to refrain from interference in the internal affairs of other nations, agree to withhold assistance from any other aggressor nation and consult with the powers of Europe in the event trouble should arise.

These suggestions were advanced as a substitute for the eastern security pact originally sponsored by France and Russia. The agreements, as contemplated by Hitler, would first be concluded as bi-lateral engagements between individual countries, although they later could be assimilated in a more comprehensive scheme.

As for Germany's return to the League of Nations, it was officially affirmed that the Reich's ideas on the subject are not yet far enough developed to enable Sir John to explain clearly to the Stresa conference exactly what Hitler wants. The Reichsleiter indicated it was said, after the British emissary had made inquiries, that the principal conditions to Germany's return to Geneva would be severance of the League of Nations covenant from the Versailles treaty and elimination of all vestiges of German inequality.

The Reichsleiter raised the question of mandates although she, like Germany, has withdrawn from the League. Hitler told Simon that if Germany re-enters the international organization, she too would want some mandates.

Hitler was represented as having also informed Sir John that Germany's willingness to sign a general arms reduction agreement was contingent upon her being granted absolute numerical equality with Great Britain or France, whichever is stronger on land and in the air.

He likewise took the stand that Germany's adherence to a Danzig pact would depend upon provision for withdrawal of Italy's support of Austria and at the same time the Reich agreed to abstain from interfering in Austrian affairs.

Montgomery, Ala., April 5 (P).—Negotiations to determine whether American and British oil companies will be able to continue business in Japan were resumed today. An indication that considerable obstacles in the way of an agreement still persist, it was disclosed that the minister of commerce recently had demanded from British and American oil companies an explanation in writing of their alleged failure to comply with the new regulations requiring them to maintain a six-months store or warehouse in Japan.

That organization, he pointed out, "is completely honeycombed with employees who are not actual relief cases. In many instances, employees of that particular bureau, wholly unqualified, have either husbands or wives who are generously provided for in private employment."

After a private three-week investigation of the relief situation in the state, McNaboe said:

"I have uncovered and secured documentary proof of astounding facts which will without doubt shock the sense of decency of the great majority of taxpayers of this state."

He charged that "in a large city of central New York, with a high percentage of industrial population, one of the leading manufacturers of that city has seized in its broadest sense the complete administration of relief in that city."

"That organization," he pointed out, "is completely honeycombed with employees who are not actual relief cases. In many instances, employees of that particular bureau, wholly unqualified, have either husbands or wives who are generously provided for in private employment."

Clinton Ave. M. E.
Church Meeting

The reports presented at the fourth quarterly conference and annual congregational meeting of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church last night, indicate that the church has had a most successful year.

Dr. Joseph W. Chasey, Kingston district superintendent of the Methodist Church, gave a stimulating and challenging devotional address on "The Cross," and then presided at the business meeting. The conference was organized with D. N. Secore as recording steward. Upon the recommendation of the nominating committee, A. W. Stall was elected disbursing steward; Edwin Herrick, connectional steward; Mrs. W. N. Ryder and E. B. Schepmoes, communion stewards; E. B. Schepmoes and Byron Van Etten, district stewards.

The election of D. N. Secore and W. N. Ryder as delegates to the New York annual conference to be held in May was confirmed.

The pastor's report, in which he expressed deep appreciation to all the organizations and individuals of the church for their cooperation and loyalty, was read by the Rev. Howard Dixon McGrath. He indicated that aside from his regular duties as preacher and pastor he had made 37 additional addresses and sermons during the year.

The treasurer's report was presented by A. W. Stall and indicated that with all bills paid and a $500 note liquidated during the year, there is a substantial balance in the treasury.

The connectional steward, Edwin Herrick, reported $343 raised for world service. This is over and above $159 for the same purpose raised by the Sunday School and $5 by the Junior League. Reports from the following organizations indicated that each had had a splendid year with all obligations met: The Sunday School, reported by W. N. Ryder; the Epworth League, reported by Thomas Miller; the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, reported by Mrs. D. N. Secore; the Woman's Home Missionary Society, reported by Mrs. J. H. Garrison; the Junior League, reported by Mrs. N. S. Cranston; the Young Woman's Missionary Guild, reported by Mrs. A. W. Stall; the Intermediate League and the Men's Club, reported by Mr. McGrath.

On recommendation of E. B. Schepmoes, chairman of the pastoral relations committee, the conference confirmed the call already extended to Mr. McGrath to remain as pastor for the ensuing year. The annual budget was presented by Jason Carle, chairman of the finance committee. This budget, which included an increase of $100 a year in the pastor's salary, was approved by the conference.

Dr. Chasey spoke in commendation and appreciation of the work which Clinton Avenue Church is doing both locally and as it is related to the world-wide program of the church, after which he closed the meeting with prayer.

SCHOOL TEACHER BATTLES FOR PAY, BARRICADES SELF

Globe, Ariz., April 5 (AP).—An embattled school teacher, barricaded against eviction from her little school house in the isolated Green Valley district, today defied efforts of officials to dislodge her.

Mrs. L. Madge Woodley of Phoenix moved her bed, cooking utensils and supplies into the schoolhouse and declared:

"I will not come out until I collect my pay."

Mrs. Woodley barricaded herself in the school when the board of trustees sent a new teacher to take her place.

Sam Haught, chairman of the school board, said Mrs. Woodley's term ended February 1 and another teacher was appointed to take charge April 1.

Mrs. Woodley contended she was engaged for the entire year.

When Mrs. Woodley's successor arrived at the school, Haught told County Attorney R. W. Hill, Mrs. Woodley "polled her hair and threw her belongings in the yard."

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 5, 1935.

WHAT MAKES A NATION
Realm-leader Hitler's ideal for Germany is roughly the same idea that President Wilson had for Europe in general when the Versailles treaty was made. He wants all the Germans to be united under one government and flag. Wilson sought to do that for the non-German groups, setting the Czechoslovakians apart by themselves, the Hungarians by themselves, the Poles by themselves, and so on. On the whole, the Versailles treaty, with all its faults, was held roughly just after the war because it gave self-government to so many racial groups that had formerly been governed by other races. But the system has not worked as well as expected.

It has failed where it did not take account of economic needs. Thus Austria, humanly logical as a German unit carved out of the Austro-Hungarian empire, has been unable to make a living because it is not an economic unit. It is like a head and stomach without arms or legs. Various other small units of territory likewise are economically impossible. This situation has been aggravated by high tariffs stifling trade across borders which did not exist before the last war. Hence come poverty and new quarrels.

Evidently it takes both things to make a nation—racial unity and economic completeness. Our experience in America seems to show that the latter is really more important than the former. Races can merge when they are free and able to make a living.

HARUCH ON WAR PROFITS.

It is reassuring to hear Bernard Baruch, chairman of the World War Industries board, adviser to several presidents and, according to some popular critics, a representative of Wall Street, making such statements as these to the Senate munitions committee at Washington:

That he would like to see tax-free bonds abolished, to make taxation fairer.

That there is as much reason why the government should save people's homes from foreclosure as there is why it should save big corporations from insolvency.

That he thinks it is "constitutional to fix prices and take property" in time of war or other great emergency.

That he would take the private profit out of war, and doesn't believe in paying business men enormous bonuses in war time.

That if we don't work out a fair and practical program, "we ought to have our heads examined."

That the government should prohibit the shipment of munitions to belligerent nations and warn citizens that they go into war zones at their own risk.

These statements were supported by evidence that Mr. Baruch had not touched a dollar of war profit while in public service in 1917 and 1918, and in fact had paid considerable money out of his own pocket which should properly have been paid by the government. If a "Wall Street man" can speak and act in this fashion, there is more agreement possible about vital American problems than many of us have supposed.

STREETS WITHOUT LITTER.

The sanitation department of the New York city government has started a drive for clean streets. First it sent out a staff of investigators to see just where the litter was and to throw a little respect for the Sanitary Code into the litterers.

This was done by warning persons caught dropping paper or bones or other rubbish on the street. Next they issued summonses against violators of the sanitary code. On a single morning, recently, more than 25 summonses were issued. They were for such offenses as sweeping refuse of sidewalks into gutters after 8 a. m. for not properly using trash, for not carrying garbage cans and for filling cans too full of ashes. Citizens were reminded that there are 15,000 trash containers on the streets and were strongly urged to use them.

Even without the rubbish containers, however, a good citizen ought to prefer tucking his empty cigarette package into his pocket in place of tossing it to the sidewalk or gutter. The clean street ought to be a matter of pride and aesthetic pleasure to every citizen.

MILK IN CHINA

The Chinese are learning to drink milk. Thirty years ago this beverage was unknown in Nanking, the country's capital. Today that city is served by 20 dairies and 600 cows. It isn't many cows, to be sure, for a community of more than half a million people, but it means progress.

Nothing, perhaps, would do more for Chinese life than the rapid multiplication of cows. The country greatly needs cattle and live stock of all kinds. Its agriculture has been carried on mainly by men and women working with the rudest kind of hand tools. It would benefit by such agricultural equipment as Americans are discarding in favor of machines. In fact, so populous a country with so many small holdings might be better off permanently without our tractors, binders and threshers.

Dairies may be a good beginning of a new era, suggesting a time when millions of Chinese farmers might have a cow, and a very rich farmer might have also a couple of pigs and a horse.

PROTECTIVE FOODS

Practically everybody is interested in food these days because it is generally recognized that the kinds and quantity have much to do with health.

Most of us likely eat more than we need but the idea that a "variety" of foods is all that is necessary for health is a mistake.

For instance it has been shown that the following diet despite its variety is not satisfactory for animals: cereal grains such as wheat, oats, corn, barley and rye; legumes such as peas, beans, soy beans; tubers, such as the potato; and fleshy roots such as the sweet potato, radish, turnip, beet, carrot and parsnip.

"Aren't you going to kiss me good-night?"

After a moment's hesitation James gave Jane a kiss on the cheek. He was no angry at the sight of Jane's serene equanimity that he was on the verge of blushing. God knows what an exhibition he would make of him if he had it out with her now.

They never had it out.

Jane weakened first. He could not literally could not bear, not so much Jane's disfavor as his own bitter disapproval of his beloved. After the first outraged anger had worn itself threadbare, James found himself making excuses for Jane.

That is because there is a lack of minerals, principally calcium (lime) and also a lack of vitamins. What has this to do with human beings?

Dr. E. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, says, "We do not attempt to say off hand that the same kinds of diets which produce such marked physical defects during the growing period in little rats will have the same effects in children. What we do is to study the inmates of orphanages and other institutions. We observe the unsatisfactory physical condition of these people and discover that their diets have been obtained from the same combination of foods which would cause defects and lack of nutrition in little animals."

James had been fearfully upset and enormously frightened that James might not give in and own her to the right. Several times she had been on the point of going after Peter and having him at the door to greet James when he came from the office, but her mother insisted that she must not argue that if she weakened now James would have the upper hand the rest of their lives.

In her relief Jane was both gentle and gracious. Making up their first quarrel was the sweetest hour either had ever known. For a week or two they remained drenched in the sweetness and the glory of that recompence together. But by the third week Jane again found reason to complain.

"James will not set an hour for Sunday breakfast," Jane told her mother. "He wants it at any hour he happens to wake up... one week at nine and another at eleven it's maddening."

"I wouldn't put up with it for a minute. Training a husband is just like training a baby. It's simply a matter of breaking them in right at the beginning. Once they're thoroughly spoiled there's no doing any thing with them."

"James was spoiled long before I ever got him. It's all I could do to make him a good husband."

James makes tomorrow, two friends in the enemy's camp.

Warning Issued Against Inferior Seed Potatoes

Albany, April 5.—Apprehensive of widespread attempts to market inferior seed potatoes to the detriment of New York potato growers, the State Department of Agriculture and Markets today issued a warning against imitations of certified seed potatoes.

Use of such words as "selected," "guaranteed," "pedigreed" and "amidavit" in describing seed potatoes not genuinely certified, is misleading and for the purpose of misleading the buyer, the Department advised. While there is no illegality involved in use of a word of the "selected" type in displaying and advertising seed potatoes, the uniformed purchaser invariably assumes he is buying certified seed.

To place the purchaser on his guard and to discharge the misleading practice, the Department of Agriculture and Markets urged buyers to look for the tag which plainly labels all certified seed potatoes. Before any seed potato stock can be sold or offered for sale as "certified," it must first be submitted to the Department for inspection and grading.

"Protection of public interests in marketing of genuine certified seed stock," said a Department spokesman, "lies in the fact that the seed is known under rigidly supervised conditions, tested at the State College of Agriculture and finally certified by the New York Seed Improvement Cooperative Association before it is submitted to the Department of Agriculture and Markets for official grading.

If the buyer will insist upon certified seed stock instead of buying seed which he is tricked into believing is certified, the saving can be computed in thousands of dollars. Of course, to deliberately misrepresent seed potatoes as certified, either orally or in writing, is a violation of the law.

Concerning seed stock produced outside of New York State, the law says:

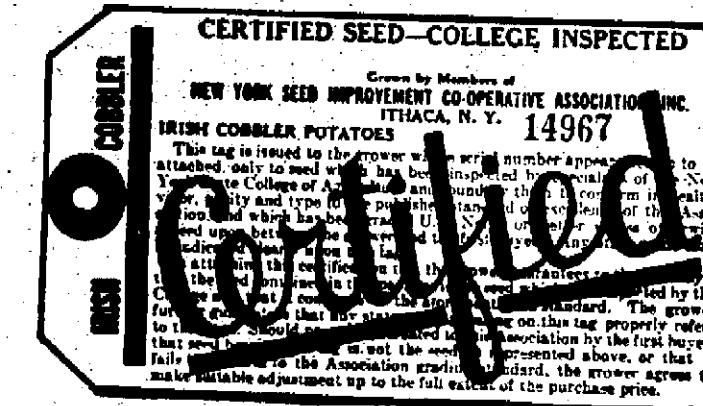

"If such seed or tubers or plants were produced in another state or a foreign country, certification by the legally constituted inspection officials of such state or country, or of the United States, shall be sufficient; otherwise certification shall be by the State College of Agriculture or by the Department of Agriculture and Markets, or by such other agency as the Commissioner shall designate."

In New York State, the New York Seed Improvement Cooperative Association is the legally designated certifying agency.

Current standards for certified seed potatoes provide that a field to be eligible for inspection shall be represented by a sample of 100 tubers taken from the same seed lot, and planted at the College of Agriculture at Ithaca; that fields shall be disqualified if inspection of the sample plot shows more than nine per cent of disease at any time before August 1, or if the fields entered for certification are within 200 feet of potatoes having more than 10 per cent of the virus diseases, and various other strict regulations.

The word "certified" appears in large type across the face of the official tag, and seed potatoes so marked must be delivered graded as U. S. No. 1 or better unless a written agreement is made between buyer and seller definitely stipulating a lower grade.

Official standards also will be promulgated this year for the 1936 crop of sweet corn and tomato seed in accordance with the policy of the Department of Agriculture and Markets to improve qualities of plantings. Lists of growers of certified seed potatoes in this State are available at the Ithaca office of the New York Seed Improvement Cooperative Association.

Broadway: "Living on Velvet". The popular pastime of the eternal triangle comes into familiar play again during the run of this film, a modern, sophisticated study of a woman who loves two men, which causes emotional conflict of varied scope as the show progresses to a logical solution. Kay Francis, the star, is given the opportunity of putting on a style show with at least fifteen new gowns designed especially for her, and the whole picture is smart, well directed, with splashes of really enjoyable dialogue. George Brent and Warren William are in the supporting group of players.

Orpheum: "Charlie Chan in Paris", and "Prescott Kid". Charlie Chan, oriental detective creation from the pen of the late Earl Derr Biggers, runs into his most baffling series of murders in the first attraction, and it takes him through old buildings dark with emptiness into the very sewers of Paris before he finally untangles the mess and gets the culprit. Exciting and weird, the show is fast paced melodrama with Warner Oland in the starring role. "Prescott Kid" is the second feature, with Tim McCoy staking all with his horse, his fists and his flaming gaze.

Kingston: "Rocky Mountain Mystery" and "Shadow of Doubt". Murder in the mountains of the most violent nature is the problem confronting a young engineer interested in a medium mine, and along with the aid of a dumb sheriff, the murders are cleared up after some of the most sinister goings-on one could wish to witness. It's a bloody tale, filled with stabblings, shrieks in the dark, treachery and brutality, and the show was adapted from a novel by Zane Grey. The cast offers Randolph Scott, Chic Sale, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Ann Shirley and Kathleen Burke. "Shadow of Doubt" implicates an actress and her fiancee in a murder mystery, and the guilt seems to fall on every member of the cast as efforts are extended to apprehend the guilty party. Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Bruce, Regis Toomey and Constance Collier are featured.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Roberta". The lilting music of Jerome Kern mixes blithely with the dancing feet of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers and the outcome is a show of tuneful gayety, one of the bright, outstanding pictures of the year. The story concerns a dance orchestra of American youngsters stranded in Paris, and the fun they have and the tangos they get into, particularly their leader, is grand entertainment. A lavish fashion show, several dance specialties, Jerome Kern's music, and the voice of Irene Dunne all combine to make this show a hit from the opening scene. Elaborate and sophisticated, the huge cast also features Victor Varconi, Clair Dodd, Helen Westley, and Randolph Scott. Fred Astaire steals the show with an exhibition of flawless dancing, and he also proves himself an engaging and talented actor.

Orpheum: Same.
Kingston: Same.

IDEAL MARRIAGE AGES
DETERMINED BY NAZIS

Berlin, (P)—With the calm assurance of a dictatorial regime, the Nazi racial politics department announces that the best ages for marrying are 26 for men and 24 for women.

But, it admits, only about one-tenth of the 509,597 weddings in this country last year were of couples of those years.

The department finds "the sharp increase in marriages due to national socialist encouragement" a source of great satisfaction. In 1932, it says, there were 7.9 marriages per 1,000 of population, compared to 10 per 1,000 in 1934.

Getting To Be a Habit
Consider that day lost whose low descending sun
Finds no new old-age pension theory spun.

A good story is told your column-about the expectant father who, after hours spent in pacing the maternity ward, exclaimed: "Thank God, it's a girl. I'd never want a son of mine to go through with what I have today."

Jerry—My dear fellow, you look miserable. What's the matter?

Kasper—My wife went out to buy a loaf a few days ago and she hasn't returned. I'm wondering what to do.

Jerry—Quite simple. Buy another loaf.

Everybody likes to meet people who have kindred tastes, but that doesn't equal the joy and satisfaction of finding someone that hates
the same things you do.

Two youths went to see a billiards match in which well-known professionals were playing. Silently they watched one of the players pile up a huge break, and at last one whispered to the other:

First Youth—What do you call
this game, Ah?

Second Ditto—Why, billiards, of course.

The other was silent for a few minutes; then he whispered again to his friend:

First Youth—Well, what do they call the game we play at our club?

Annual Spring Madness
I hoe and raise the spaded loam,
plant quarts of seed—of any posse,
The sun beats down upon my nose!
My freckles bloom upon my nose!
An extra row or two won't hurt—I'll try some will-resistant asters;
My garden shoes are full of dirt, my beck's in line for porous plaster.
My neighbors bring me "alps"—oh,
please, I feebly call for assistance.
My neck is broken—and my knees could stand a little will-resistance.

A woman writes us: "Money can only be spent once." But if it's borrowed money it has to be paid back.

Detective—So I've caught you in the financial district, have I?

Crook—Yes, Bill, but I can't slip you nothing. I just got away from a broker.

The short cut to present-day popularity is to suggest a scheme to support everybody at government expense.

Tourist—Have any of your rooms running water?

Bruhville Hotel Keeper—Certainly not, sir! The roof is kept in a perfect state of repair.

Man "may want little here below," but that's about three times what he'll get.

Radio will be able to transmit smell some day, we are told. What's that we're getting on some of the programs now?

Collector—Say, I've called to collect some back payments on your antique furniture.

Head of the House—You're crazy.
I never bought any antique furniture on the instalment plan.

Collector—Well, maybe it wasn't antique when you bought it.

The Final Judgment will take only one day. You see, it won't be necessary to hold the deal till somebody can take it to the Supreme Court.

Jerry—You woman hater?
Frank—Yes; I'm married.

The fact that the earth was created in just six days is conclusive proof that it wasn't a government relief job.

Husband—One more payment and the furniture's ours!

Wife—Good! Then we can throw it out and get some new stuff.

Three-word description of the present era: "Wanted: A Job."

New Era League

The New Era League of the First Presbyterian Church on Elmendorf street held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, April 3. The president, Mrs. Lewis Shaw, presided.
Mrs. Plush, secretary of Missionary Education, had charge of the program, which was on World Brotherhood. Yearly reports from the officers and chairmen of committees were given, showing a very successful year for the society. The ladies were reminded of the semi-annual meeting of the Presbyterian Society at Beacon on April 11. The League will serve a dinner at the church to ministers and their elders of the North River Presbytery on April 16.

Puffy galloped to the bank, then he ran to the horse.
"You've saved me from drowning;
I'm grateful, of course."
"From now on," the horse says.
"You'll be my young master."
AM brackets run fast, but quite frankly, I'm faster."

CAPITAL NEWS
HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr.

Albany, April 5 (Special)—The state senators went to work in great style yesterday to clear from their over-crowded calendar a mass of legislation. Senator Arthur H. Wicks, putting on a one-man show, stalled an exodus from the capitol for two hours as he put on the first filibuster in many a year. (Reported elsewhere.)

Senator Desmond Back.

The members heartily welcomed their old colleague, Senator Thomas C. Desmond, of Newburgh, who has been in Florida all year to regain his health. He came through his illness after a case of double pneumonia, and attack of streptococcus, and an operation which removed his tonsils.
Tanned by southern suns, he looks very well, and is rearing to go. He is looked upon as one of the most learned men in the Senate today.

First thing Mr. Desmond did upon his return was to vote for a Democratic program bill, and he turned it into victory for his opposite party, as two Democrats dissented. The bill would allow changing of the constitution by petition of the people rather than by two differently elected bodies of the legislature which is the present ruling.

Crime Bill.

With the brilliant John J. McNaboe acting as spearhead for an attack on crime, and assailing those who refused to vote on the Attorney General's bill to stamp out this malicious racket, the senate passed yesterday three measures that have been recommended. One of them caused some repartee from Elmer F. Quinn, although both are Democrats. Another caused several upsetters to object: it would make void any pistol license issued outside of New York city that was used within this city unless approved by the Police Commissioner. Norman A.
O'Brien felt that if this were the case there should be a reciprocal arrangement so that New York city permits would be void outside of the city.

TBRA Investigation.

An aftermath of the preceding day's battle over the means by which relief moneys are being administered in New York city and other parts of the state as well, caused John J.
Dunnigan, Democratic leader, to introduce a resolution that would call for an investigation of conditions.
It has been referred to the committee on finance, as there is a $50,000 appropriation. It is predicted that there will never be any such investigation, but it looks well to make a gesture for such a thing.

Among charges made on the floor
by Dunnigan, who addressed his remarks to Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3rd, of New York and lone Republican, was one in which he declared that administration officials in the metropolitan area had gone as far south as Alabama and as far west as California to get help, disregarding the many capable heads in the city and state of New York who could readily be of service for this type of work.
Dunnigan asserted that Baldwin represented Mayor LaGuardia and City Hall in the legislature, and that he should be able to answer questions fired at him. Baldwin, who is a new man in legislative circles here, although he has served on the board of aldermen in New York, did well to answer the hard hitting did well leader, and entirely held his own.

FIVE minutes to get the washing done!
You! Just the five minutes it takes to bundle up your wash and phone to call.
So you see, here's your chance to win your wife—and your wife's undying gratitude.
She'll be so happy to know that now she can afford to have her washing done. She'll be so happy to know about Thrifty Service —the new home washing service—that many women find is even cheaper than doing the washing at home.

From here on on read this out load for your wife to hear

If there's one day in the week every week it's washday. If there's one thing she hates to do, it's the washing. No wonder it's no fun sloshing around in a damp, dirty basement ... wringing out heavy, dripping clothes ... washing, rinsing, hanging them up. It's dangerous, too.

(Many a cold gets a good start that way!)
You wives owe it to your husbands, your children, yourself to stop taking chances with your health—stop washing yourself over the family wash.

Make up your mind right now that you're going to put washing out of your life and out of the home, forever. This week ... and every week ... simply bundle up your clothes and send them to the laundry. We will wash your clothes in rich, foamy water—rinse them in gallons of sparkling, rain-wet water, then send them back to you, ready with the flat work ironed.
And for this wonderful service (and your whole day of leisure) you pay only 85 cents for a 14-pound bundle. Which is one of the best bargains that has come your way in a long time!

Events Around The Empire State

Middletown, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Funeral arrangements were made today for Joseph Rixton, 62, of Harryville, Sullivan county, who was drowned in Delaware river yesterday.

Rixton's body was discovered by a step-daughter who searched for him after he had been missing all Wednesday night.

Limestone, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Riding with his World War buddy, whom he had not seen in sixteen years, Herman F. Costello, insurance man of Bradford, Pa., was injured fatally when a car driven by Patrick Doyle crashed into a concrete abutment near here yesterday. Doyle had come from Philadelphia to visit Costello. The latter died last night after suffering a skull fracture in the accident.

Rome, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—A six months sentence in Onondaga county penitentiary today faced Philip Guilliam, 26, who pleaded guilty before City Judge Walter W. Abbott yesterday of receiving home relief under false pretenses.

It was charged that during the period he received relief he worked nights in a mill.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—For the first time in the history of Syracuse University it will have a spiritual advisor for Roman Catholic students.

The Rev. Gannon F. Ryan received the appointment. The university was founded as an Episcopalian institution.

Potsdam, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Injuries received when he was struck by a delivery truck caused the death of Reginald Richards, 11, of Norwood, last night. Two brothers, Warren, 9, and Dewey, 6, received severe bruises when the truck also struck them.

PATTERN 5279

With lace the highnote for Spring and Summer, the woman who crochets is indeed fortunate. At her command are the season's choicest accessories. This lace blouse, crocheted in string, is an excellent choice—it can make last year's suit look like new—it will be a boon in the summer wardrobe. You can do it in colored string or a fine yarn, as you choose. The lace stitch used in the body of the blouse contrasts with the plain work. The shoulder lacing is particularly smart.

In pattern 5279 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the blouse shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements, and color arrangements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 250 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

English in theme—blonde fur trim...
lower heels.

Diana Merwin

Many of the latest suits for spring, patch pockets and a plainly tailored skirt complete this very interesting "English" in theme, with vented backs and swagger, easy hanging lines that give a smart and desirable tailored effect. Fabrics, too, add to the "English" styling, and interest to the many styles. Bright pastels are especially well liked in these new styles, including such colors as peach, rose-glow and poison green.

In new footwear, lower heels are favored. The one pictured above shows a tailored sandal of peasant inspiration. It is made of crushed kid in a range of colors as well as well as adorning.

Talks to parents

Shock
BY BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Anne was run into by a car and dragged some little distance. Fortunately she escaped serious injury, and to the doctor's surprise did not even show much sign of shock. The reason for her taking it so calmly lay in the attitude of those about her. Instead of screaming and crying and going to pieces nervously, they took the stand that thanks for a miraculous escape were due.

The doctor made a thorough examination of the child and watched her carefully for some time, but as far as possible the incident was not dwelt upon. Anne was not given the "shock" or wept over.

Many of the nervous reactions to which children are subject are a direct reflection of the behavior of those about them. Children take the most extraordinary happenings as part of the usual events of life. They normally do not feel shock as much as adults expect.

Of course they want to be the center of attention and if they find they can attain this enviable position by reacting to events in a given way, they will at once do what is expected of them.

A certain amount of shock is to be expected after a serious accident, and it is therefore probably wise to keep a child in bed and quiet for a day or two even if the bodily injuries seem negligible. But there is no need to suggest hysteria and a general lack of emotional equilibrium by one's own behavior.

Many parents are afraid of expressing fears and cautions unless they express extreme emotion in such cases. But the judgment of one's neighbors is of no importance compared with the child's welfare. The parent who controls himself is showing real affection for the child and also displaying sound common sense.

Daughter and her pet doll dress alike. And aren't these dresses cunning?

How shall you carry them out? Pink dimity print with plain pink dimity is too cute for words, as pictured. Other cottons as batiste, voile, lawn prints, etc., make up very prettily in this easily sewn model.

Style No. 2612 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1 yard of 35-inch print and $\frac{3}{4}$ yard of 39-inch plain material with 3 yards of binding, and $\frac{3}{4}$ yards of 2-inch ribbon for child's dress. Pattern includes dress for 19-inch doll.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1629-B

Matron's Print Frock Accenting Cape Theme

The charm and wearability of the cape theme in 1935 fashions is expected to be popularized by not-so-slim matrons who want clothes that are comfortable as well as adorning.

In the model shown the fashion for prettiness excels itself in the interesting cape of irregular length. This attractive feature diagnoses figure defects in the back and covers the arms sufficiently to make sleeves unnecessary. At the neckline a shaped band, chosen in a becoming color simulates a collar. To it is attached the cape. Broken outlines in the front lend sophistication.

The dress clings close to the figure and gives an effect of height and slenderness by the shaped panel in the skirt. The panel joins the side insets with graceful curves, and thus produces a hemline which is full enough to be just right for the new soft materials.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1629-B is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires $\frac{3}{4}$ yards of 39 inch material; $\frac{1}{2}$ yard 36, or 39 inch contrast.

Tomorrow: Wash suit for little boys from two to six.

Not a Chance, Says Count Saakochine, Denmark, April 5 (AP).—The wealthy young Danish Count Kurt Haugwitz today counted himself out as a suitor for the hand of Princess Barbara Mitaani. "All stories of my connection with the princess are absolutely ridiculous," he said. The count returned recently from London where he met the Woolworth heiress before he left for Rome. "If there were any truth in the reports, I wouldn't be here now," he asserted. "I admire beautiful women of all nations. I am remaining in Denmark for at least five months."

Y. W. C. A. DRESSED UP FOR BIG SPRING CONFERENCE

Our local Young Women's Christian Association rooms in the Jr. O. U. A. M. building on Henry street has been all dressed up for the big spring conference of the Business and Professional Girls, and so incidentally for "home consumption" later on. Not only have the girls, little and big, young and old, the directors, and the members of the staff been amazingly busy in this redecorating, etc., but the Junior Order of American Mechanics has done its part to have the rooms in good condition.

New linoleum has been laid on the floors of all the rooms, wood work has been stained and varnished, a little dressing room has been arranged and new plumbing has been installed. One marked improvement is the opening of the door between the secretary's office and the reading room, making both seem more spacious and lighter.

Entering the front door, one notes at once a very pretty walnut gate-legged table and mirror, the gift of the Young Married Women's Club, which organization also gave a new screen and steps to the platform in the gymnasium and auditorium, according to the use at different times.

Throughout all of the rooms the very attractive rattan furniture has been repainted and cushioned with royal blue upholstery cloth.

In the business office, the reading room and the office of Miss Estey, the secretary, there are curtains of soft-toned tile cloth which give the rooms a welcoming warmth of coloring.

For the secretary's office and the reading room, Miss Emily Hoysradt has most generously loaned three of her most attractive paintings and a map with designs of Ulster county.

The various groups of the Girl Reserve have contributed lamp shades, a magazine rack, wall flower holder and plants to go therein.

There are pretty and appropriate curtains and table cover in the dressing room and the serving room off of the kitchen.

In the auditorium-gymnasium, the long windows look very cheery with hangings of henna colored monk's cloth, gift of the Kingston Business and Professional Girls' Club, which has given many smaller articles making for greater convenience and attractiveness in the rooms all through.

And, as is the custom in the Kingston Y. W. C. A., everybody has given most generously of time and effort to make the rooms, including the auditorium, attractive in the extreme.

To add to the atmosphere of home comfort, the guests will not have to go to some other building for the banquet, as that is to be served in the rooms of the Jr. O. U. A. M.

upstairs, which will be much appreciated.

The general rejoicing over the furnishing of the Y. W. is not just for the immediate happy occasion but covers a forward look of months to come.

FRENCH ANIMALS

PAY IRAN STUDY

Marseille, France (P)—A flock of sheep and a herd of cattle are being taken out to Teheran in exchange for facilities to study ancient art and literature by Henri Lormian, French savant.

The animals, all of specially selected stock, were shipped by sea to Beirut. From there M. Lormian takes them in automobile trucks 1,600 miles across the desert to the capital of Iran. The Iran government, wishing to introduce French stock, asked M. Lormian, who is a veterinary surgeon as well as an archeologist, to

Diamonds as Grinders

Genuine diamonds are used for coating grinding wheels. Stones that are off color or too small for the market are crushed and graded, mixed with a special bond and coated on a composition form to a thickness of one eighth of an inch. The diamond layer is applied to the side of the wheel form for side grinding. The wheels are used for conditioning the hardest machine tools. (Pearson's Weekly.)

Ladd and Warren First Speakers

Ithaca, N. Y., April 5.—Dr. Carl E. Ladd, dean of the New York state colleges of agriculture and home economics, opened a new series of evening broadcasts over station WESG at Cornell University on Tuesday, April 2. He gave a brief account of the history, purpose, and features of the station.

The plan calls for a fifteen-minute broadcast every Tuesday and Thursday evening during April and May, from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Ladd's opening talk is followed by a discussion of agricultural prospects by Professor George F. Warren of the department of agriculture economics. These evening broadcasts, according to Professor Charles A. Taylor who has charge of agricultural radio programs, are designed to reach farm families who miss part of the regular noontime programs and for those who seek more agricultural information. The remainder of the month's schedule: On April 4, the speaker is Professor E. Van Alstine; 9, Professor J. A. Cope, forestry; 11, Alfred Van Wegener, poultry; 16, Professor E. F. Phillips, entomology; 18, Professor Paul Work, vegetable crops; 23, G. S. Salisbury, animal husbandry; 25, W. E. Brawell, entomology; 30, Professor L. H. MacDaniels, pomology.

RANGEFINDERS FOR GUNS CUT AFRICAN MAP COST

Pretoria, So. Africa (P)—Artillery rangefinders are being used to map the Union of South Africa.

Considerable success has attended the work which is under the Union Trigonometrical Survey.

Officials say only $3 need be spent to map a square mile of land, as against $7.50 by usual surveying methods and about $20 for an air survey.

Sweeden's Trade Growing

Stockholm (P)—Sweeden's foreign trade continues to show encouraging results by figures just published.

Although an import balance of $4,750,000 prevails, a number of exports showed remarkable improvement.

Newsprint sales abroad totalled 17,000 tons in February, as compared with 9,400 tons in February a year ago.

Wiltwyck Chapter Meeting Thursday

There was a large attendance at the regular monthly meeting of Wiltwyck chapter, D. A. R., at the chapter house on Thursday, April 4, when Miss Louise W. van Hoevenberg, the regent, presided. Miss Sarah Hasbrouck, the registrar, reported that two new members had been accepted by the local board. These two names were voted in by the chapter, subject to the approval of the national board. Mrs. G. N. Wood gave an interesting report on the fund for Constitution Hall. The following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. William J. Cranstion, chairman; Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, Miss Beulah Smith, Miss Mary C. Hume, Miss Helen Turner and Mrs. Margaret Conklin.

It was voted, after some discussion to hold a party in the chapter house and on the grounds on Flag Day, June 14. Details of this event will be published in the near future.

Mention was made of an article appearing in this month's National D. A. R. Magazine written by the regent about Wiltwyck Chapter House which also included a fine picture of the house. It was requested that the secretary read the article which was of interest to all. Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker, program chairman, then announced that Mrs. W. Dean Hays would read a paper which she had prepared after considerable research work entitled "Our Chapter House and Its Relics". Mrs. Hays told that the first record of ownership was that of Anthony Crispell. For over a hundred years the house was known as the Tappan House. At one time it housed a printing business and the front part was used as a book and stationery store. During the Civil War and the World War the house was used by patriotic women for Red Cross work. When purchased in 1907 by Wiltwyck Chapter the entire house interior was rebuilt, the entrance hall and stair case being copied from Washington's Mount Vernon home. The old house contains priceless treasures and antiques, many of which were described by Mrs. Hays. A full report of her paper follows:

Previous to 1658 what is now this state and county were inhabited by hostile Indians, and the many settlers at that time were at their mercy, so after the Indian Massacre of 1658, Peter Stuyvesant, who was then governor, ordered the settlers either to remove to a safer locality or to rebuild their houses within the bounds of a little village, which was to be surrounded by a stout stockade or fortification constructed of heavy logs. This stockade formed an enclosure, the boundaries of which were approximately as follows: The north side followed the edge of the bank above the lowlands along the line of the present North Front street, then turning to the east it went along the banks on the eastern side, where East Front, now Clinton Avenue, runs. At the present junction with Main street, the south side began, reaching to the western edge of the high ground, where the fourth side ran along what is now Green street, till it met the north side at North Front street.

After the stockade was erected, the people began to build more permanent homes within the "Fortje" as it was called. Long after the stockade was gone, and the village had spread far beyond its bounds, elderly villagers when taking a stroll about town, would say they were going "rond de fortje." Most of the houses were after the same fashion, not with high-peaked gables like the city houses in New Amsterdam, but long low dwellings with thick stone walls, dormer windows in the roof and a hospitable "stoep" with seats each side, before the double door, like the village homes in Holland and Belgium. These houses were directly on the street.

There was one exception, however, to this rule. Near the western side of the enclosure where Crown and Green streets join, there stood this house quite by itself—a large lot behind it, and in front, a triangular green, with a long vista down the street. The commanding situation made it appear as if the place must have been chosen for a public building, or the abode of some local dignitary. Yet it seems to have been private property from the beginning. It is certainly one of the very oldest houses in the city. About 260 years ago, in 1695, the Rev. John Miller, captain to His Majesty's troops—an English clergyman—visited the village in company with Governor Fletcher, and drew a map of the stockade and the buildings enclosed. We can easily distinguish among them the triangular lot, and the house which still is standing here. It was probably smaller than at the present time. Its stout stone walls show signs of having been added to at different times—perhaps after the wood work had been burned in 1777 by the British soldiers. It must have been soon rebuilt, as a family was occupying it in 1784.

The first owner of this house of whom records remain, was Anthony Crispell, who conveyed it on December 27, 1705, to Matthias Van Keuren, in 1719 the Trustees of the Freeholders and Corporation of Kingston gave him a further conveyance. On March 2, 1735-6, Van Keuren conveyed the property for $600 to Hendrikus Sleight (merchant) by deed. Mr. Sleight was prominent in village affairs during the revolution, and in 1782 when General Washington paid his visit to Kingston he was President of the Village Trustees and at the head of the Trustees and citizens met Washington and his escort and conducted them to the public house of Everardus on the Northwest corner of Fair street and Maiden Lane, the Old Teller House. "It is known that at that time General Washington dined at the residence of Judge Dirck Wynkoop, on Green street, only recently torn down, and it may be supposed that a gentleman of Washington's well known attainments, fully understanding the punctilious requirements of coronial intercourse, and exact, as we know him to have been in the discharge of every social obligation, he would have called at the home of the village President, at least, to pay his respects to the ladies of his household. Therefore, it can be believed that General Washington, the Father of our Country, and first President of the United States, has been in this house." Hendrikus Sleight must have rented the house to others for a time, as it was occupied, sometime between 1780 and 1790 by the family of Cornelis Wynkoop of New York city. Mr. Wynkoop was a native of Ulster county, but had been in business in New York for many years, as merchant and importer. The seizure of the city of New York by the British ruined his trade and his home was burned in the great fire of 1776. So he took shelter for a time in his old home, which was just beginning to spring up from its ashes. He held a commission as quartermaster in the Continental Army. One of his daughters, Catharine Wynkoop, was married, while living in Kingston, to Jonathan Hasbrouck—and their daughter, Catharine, afterwards the wife of Severyn Bruyn, was born in this old house in 1787. In 1784 Hendrikus Sleight conveyed the property to his daughter, Helena Jansen, for $400 and "the natural love and affection which he hath and beareth unto his said daughter." The deed conveying this property is now framed—through the generosity of Captain R. R. Hoes, U. S. N.—and hangs on the entrance wall of the building.

On August 14, 1794, Henry Jansen, the husband of Helena, died, and the next April his widow, Helena Jansen, conveyed the lot to her daughter, Sarah's husband—John Tappan, "reserving a room such as she may choose in said dwelling house for and during her life time. From this time on for hundred years the house belonged to members of the same family and was known as the "Tappan House." John Tappan was the editor of the old newspaper "Ulster Plebeian." His printing office was on the second floor of the west side of the building, reached by an outside staircase. Underneath for a time he had a book and stationery store at the front of the house. After his death the interest in the property was divided among different heirs, until in 1851, Henry Jansen Tappan, when the Civil War broke out the Jansen Tappan family was living in this old house. And in April 1861, as soon as the Fort Sumter guns were fired, Mrs. Tappan opened her hospital doors to the patriotic women of Kingston, that they might have a place to meet in which to sew and knit, prepare lint and bandages and make hospital garments for the army. The Sanitary Commission, the forerunner of the Red Cross, took charge of these supplies. So the work of patriotic women began in this house many years ago. For some years after Mr. Tappan left it, the house was used as a tenement, its many rooms being rented to several different families.

In 1898 the property came into the possession of Rudolph Kenyon, a nephew of Eliza E. Tappan Starr, its late owner. Mr. Kenyon's mother, the wife of Hon. W. S. Kenyon, was Miss Tappan. On July 2, 1907, Mr. Kenyon conveyed the premises to Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for the sum of $2,000. It was in a deplorable condition, infested with rats and mice and all kinds of vermin. It was occupied by blacks and whites, Italians and all kinds of undesirable people, many of whom were not paying any rent and being of such a desperate character the agents were in fear of them and would not venture to try and collect the rents. It was a common thing in those days for the police to be called in frequently to quell the fights and disputes, which arose among the tenants, and even after the building had been sold and all ordered to move, though the place was so awful, some refused to vacate and were dispossessed. So when Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., purchased it, there was great rejoicing in the neighborhood, as the old house had been a great detriment to the neighborhood.

Then began the task of rebuilding it. The entire interior was removed and altered. It was disinfected and disinfected. The entrance hall and staircase were copied from Mt. Vernon, and the building is now a fine specimen of Colonial architecture, of which Kingston is very proud, well suited with its spacious rooms and hall to be used as a chapter meeting house, museum and social hall. On June 1, 1908, a brilliant reception was held in which Governor and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes received the many invited guests together with

'Pioneers' Will Seek Farm Empire In Heart Of Alaska's Gold Fields

Seattle (P)—Recalling frontier expansions of other lean decades, 400 young single men from relief camps will sail from Seattle April 20 to be followed soon by approximately 200 picked families—the first contingent of modern pioneers who will carve new homes in the fertile Matanuska valley of Alaska.

Unlike the pioneers of the covered wagon era, these moderns will travel in special trains from their homes in northern Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin to Seattle where they will take ship for Seward. From there they will go by rail again to their new homes.

Will Get 40-Acre Tracts

Neither will they be forced to wrestle a livelihood from the soil from the moment of their arrival. The government, through the FERA, will see that food is plentiful, tools available for clearing and planting the land and building homes, that cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry are on hand for stocking the new farms. When the ground is cleared, each family will be allotted a 40-acre tract and given a drawing account of $3,000 to be repaid in 30 years with 3 per cent interest.

Surrounded by Willow creek, Lucky Shot and other famous gold fields, as well as one of Alaska's most productive coal fields, these hand-picked sons and daughters of the soil will raise vegetables, grains, fruits, livestock and produce dairy products. A cannery will preserve the food for distribution in the territory.

Fertile Land

Just north of Anchorage, the Matanuska valley of more than 1,000,000 acres is said by government experts to be one of the most fertile in the world. There is a federal agricultural experimental station nearby. Wheat, giant cabbages, potatoes and other tubers, and delicious strawberries have been grown successfully in the valley, the experts say.

Alaska's new residents have been or will be selected by government investigators. Success in earning a living in their present localities, physical hardihood, steadiness and reliability are prerequisites considered.

Just a Beginning

While government officials stress statements that this first settlement must be a success before future developments in other sections of the territory, it is known that Matanuska

In the shadow of Alaska's snow-capped peaks, future years may see the development of a new agricultural empire. To the Matanuska valley, shown here when the potato hills were a mass of blooms, the government is sending 300 single men and 200 families, the first contingent of an agricultural colonization project. The new pioneers will sail from Seattle, disembarking at Seward, shown on the map. From there they will go by rail to the Matanuska valley north of Anchorage.

Alaska is expected to be the forerunner of a rapid and orderly development of the great northern territory. While Alaska does not now desire statehood, success in these efforts will hasten the time when our rich land will be ready to step into the union and assume its place on an equal footing with the other states.

Respectfully submitted.

KATHRYN BOICE HAYS.

After hearing this authentic record of the chapter house, it was voted to keep a copy of Mrs. Hays' paper as a permanent record.

Miss van Hoevenberg reported that at least nine of the 12 delegates and alternates who had been elected to attend the Continental Congress at Washington, D. C., the week of April 15, were planning to go. This is a fine representation from Kingston. Three visitors from out of town were welcomed by the regent. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Hiriam F. Whitney and Mrs. Howard R. St. John. Mrs. Philip Eltinge

Twice Sentenced To Be Shot, Delbert Green Pins Five-Year-Old Hope On New Court Order

By M. E. BARKER

Sal Lake City (AP)—With the double anniversary of his execution—that-never-arrived just about a month off, Delbert Green, twice sentenced to be shot, may soon hear a court order which will decide his fate.

Twice within the last five years—both times on March 19—he has heard District Judge Eugene E. Pratt sentence him to be shot the following May 17, once in 1930 and again in 1932. And each time that date has come and gone, and Green has lived on in the Utah state prison.

This year he continues his undisturbed demeanor, despite the fact that the state supreme court, which reversed his first conviction, has sustained his second one. His attorneys have asked the court for a rehearing. If that is refused, they have in abiding a request for an insanity hearing or an appeal for clemency.

Green was a youth of 20 when he legal right to indicate a preference followed his young wife to the home as to the manner of his death. This in a jealous rage shot and killed for him. Utah is the only state where condemned murderers have the choice of death by shooting.

Green's attorneys contended sum- them both, as well as his uncle, where condemned murderers have the choice of death by shooting.

He was on parole at the time from the state prison, where he had served three months for shooting a confined there, and expert witnesses declared Green insane.

Green was tried for the murder of his uncle, convicted and given his been hanging over him for the last five years finally overtake him, Green again will have his choice between dying by gunfire or the rope.

Here's the Utah state prison yard, where condemned murderers are put to death by the firing squad. Behind a canvas curtain suspended in the door of the prison machine shop (right) members of the firing squad stand, their rifle muzzles thrust through slits in the curtain. The condemned man sits on a stout chair 22 feet away (left). A heavy scabog behind him stops the bullets. Through the far gate in the prison wall, a closed car brings the members of the firing squad, whose identity remains a secret, and takes them away. Out of this gate the body of the condemned man also is taken from the prison. Delbert Green above, right, is awaiting a court order which may send him to meet his death in this yard. It is almost five years since he first heard a judge sentence him to death there.

All but one or two of the 30 felons executed at the state prison here since 1855 have been shot to death. The last execution there was in 1926, when a negro slayer faced a firing squad.

If Delbert Green at last should die in front of a row of rifle muzzles, he would not see his executioners. They would enter the prison yard in a closed automobile, descend behind a canvas curtain, file past a stack of five rifles and each select one. Four of the weapons would be loaded, but no one would know which one contained blank cartridges.

Then the five rifle barrels would be thrust through slots in the curtain, aimed at the breast of the condemned man, seated in stout wooden chair about 20 paces away. At the command, all would fire. A second volley is seldom necessary. The volunteer executioners leave in the same manner, their identities undisclosed.

This is what Green has been condemned to undergo on two May 17s out of the last five. The sixth, he hopes, will find him still alive.

City Permits Fishing.

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne said today that the city of New York will permit about fishermen of Long Island to fish in ponds and reservoirs of Long Island, a privilege forbidden last year. The island is utilized by the city of New York as part of its water system. The only reservoir of the city which fishermen are forbidden to fish in is the Hemlockdale storage reservoir.

Bill To Abolish Highway Supt.

Wicks reported that this had been drawn up only after the bill had been introduced.

Long Speech.

Armed with a half-dozen paper cups filled with water to relieve his throat, Senator Wicks went to work on his discourse, the longest held this year and for that matter the longest that many an old timer had ever heard.

Remarks By Wicks.

His preliminary remarks were as follows:

Mr. President:

"When this bill was on General Orders I gave a very brief outline of what was back of this bill. I now propose to spread in full upon the minutes of this house, so that the record will show for all time, the true facts disclosed by the records and the sworn testimony of the several witnesses to show that not only does this bill deprive a people of their inherent right of home rule, but, and I say it advisedly, attempts to tell the Court of Appeals of this state that if they won't decide in their favor then they can go hang, for they have another way to skin the cat and this bill is the other way.

"May I again say to the Gentlemen from the 30th that I bear him no ill will, he has acted very courageously in the whole matter and I here and now think him fit to express his senatorial ethics to have first spoken to me before introducing this ripper bill.

"But now let's go down to cases and see why the bill was introduced, who is back of it and what it attempts to do. To do that it is necessary to go back a year or so, and visualize conditions as they existed in Ulster County in the summer of 1933.

"Special Session—

"Monday, May 29, 1933, at 8 p. m. (D. S. T.).

"A special meeting of the board of supervisors of Ulster county was held at the Supervisors' rooms, at the County Court House, Kingston, New York, on Monday, May 29, 1933, at 8 p. m. daylight saving time.

"The meeting was called to order by the chairman, and the following supervisors answered the roll call:

"Armstrong, Britt, Cashdollar, Charlton, Cragan, Cullen, Dubois, Dusinberre, Elsworth, Feeney, Finch, George, Jenks, Keeler, Knoll, Lamource, Lyons, Markie, Myers, E. Rowe, J. L. Rowe, Scanlon, Simpson, Stanbrough, Torrington, Van Wagner, Voss, Weber, Wells and Williams.

(Democratic.)

"On motion, Supervisors Wright and Davis were excused on account of illness.

"Meers, Stanbrough, Charlton, and Dusinberre offered the following:

"Whereas, at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster, held on the 29th day of December, 1928, James F. Loughran, Civil Engineer, was duly appointed County Superintendent of Highways of Ulster County for a term of four years, said term to begin the 9th day of June, 1929, and

"Whereas, said term will expire on the 9th day of June, 1933, now therefore, it is

"Resolved, that the said James F. Loughran, Civil Engineer, of the city of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, be and hereby is appointed County Superintendent of Highways of Ulster County for a term of four years, said term to commence on the 9th day of June, 1933, and moved its adoption.

"Adopted, by the following vote: Ayes—30; nays—none."

"You will note from the foregoing transcript of the minutes and at this point gentlemen please follow me very closely—30 members of the 36 were present and as Ripley would say 'Believe it or not' there was not one dissenting vote to his reappointment. Democrats and Republicans alike, by their affirmative vote expressed in the finest possible manner their confidence in his work and their approval of his conduct of the office. The record of that meeting shows that there was no mention of any one else; the Democrats did not even nominate a man, thereby in my humble opinion putting their unqualified stamp of approval on him and his work.

"In the fall of 1933 the political complexion of the Board changed to the extent that the Democrats were in control of the Board by one vote, namely 17 Democrats and 16 Republicans. They took over the affairs of the County Government on January 1, 1934, and one month after that, February 1, 1934, they demanded that the man whom they had unanimously appointed a short time before resign. So they proceeded first to kick out the Sealer of Weights and Measures, but lo and behold that didn't work for Jim Loughran, even though they had approved of his work a short time before, but no, it never entered their head to be consistent. They wanted that job and that's all there was to it. They asked for his resignation and when it was not forthcoming they proceeded to get him out one way or another.

"Charges were preferred and he was directed to appear before the Board to answer for his alleged misdeeds. Incidentally it is very interesting to note in passing that the charges were made by one of the supervisors who later sat as one of his judges. That is a fine commentary on American justice, when an accuser sits as the trial or rather persecutor continues, with all questions of evidence ruled on by a board who with very few exceptions were not at all familiar with the rules governing admissibility of evidence. Quite naturally the vote on these rulings was a strict party vote. A hollow mockery if there was ever one.

"Letter By Flemming.

He next read a letter from Harry H. Flemming, who has served as attorney to James Loughran during the past year. The text of this communication is as follows:

"Law Office of
HARRY H. FLEMMING
22 Ferry St., Kingston, N. Y.
"March 28, 1935
"Honorable Arthur A. Wicks,
Senate Chamber,
Albany, N. Y.

"My dear Senator:

"I am in receipt of a copy of a letter of Arthur B. Ewig, county attorney, addressed to Senator Byrne relative to the bill now before the Senate abolishing the office of County Superintendent of Highways for Ulster County and creating the office of County Engineer.

"The counties throughout the state with the exception of Nassau County have County Superintendents of Highways appointed pursuant to Section 30 of the Highway Law. The general powers and duties of a County Superintendent are outlined in Section 33 of the Highway Law, and cover more than two printed pages. Generally, the County Superintendent has charge of all highways and bridges within the county, and general supervision of the work of constructing, improving, and repairing bridges and town highways; he must visit and inspect highway bridges and highways in each town, and advise and direct the town superintendents with reference to repairs and maintenance of bridges and highways. Specific mention is made of other duties, all of which are performed subject to the supervision and direction of the State Department.

"The present County Superintendent of Highways for Ulster County is a competent engineer of long experience, and well trained educationally and by experience for the position he holds. He has performed all of the duties required of an engineer as well as a County Superintendent of Highways for the one salary.

"In the proceeding instituted by the Board of Supervisors to remove him from office, after a careful analysis of all bills presented by him to the county for the period from 1924 to 1934, there was presented at the hearing bills for work done for the district attorney in criminal matters aggregating $428.00. This covered not personal services alone but the work of men who assisted him in making surveys and preparing maps. In addition to this item there were bills aggregating $668.00 for services of surveying, establishing grades, supervising work and maps in connection with the erection of a tuberculosis hospital for the county of Ulster. This item covered not alone the services of the engineer but likewise of his men assisting in making surveys, etc. It appears, therefore, that over a period of ten years the aggregate cost of engineering of the other departments of the county performed by the County Superintendent, and for which he was reimbursed for his men's services, and paid for his services, is $1,088.00.

"The courts in reversing the determination of the Board of Supervisors did not sustain the contention of the counsel for the Board to the effect that these payments were not properly made, and there is no doubt surrounding the question. The county attorney's statement that the occasions when our County Superintendent of Highways can serve the other departments of the county under the act in question would appear to be remote indeed when consideration is given to the fact that the city of New York has acquired the valley of the Esopus and established there the largest municipal water supply storage known, impounding approximately 128 billion gallons of water, and that provision is made in the act authorizing the city of New York to acquire lands and construct an impounding reservoir for the right of certain municipalities in the vicinity to obtain water from this source, and that the city of Kingston, the county seat of Ulster county, and the largest settlement within the county, has its own water supply which comes from Cooper Lake in the Catskills and has acquired the rights and constructed a system which will care for approximately double the present population of the city.

"If perchance such county water authority were created and operated upon any substantial basis, the thought that one engineer could take care of all of the county highway work as defined by Section 33 of the Highway Law, and also take care of all of the engineering that would be required under the county water authority is so unreasonable that it is hardly worthy of consideration in connection with the question here presented.

"There is no force to the argument presented by the county attorney's letter. The fact is that the bill now before the Senate was designed to consolidate the present County Superintendent of Highways out of office and to put in office a County Engineer with substantially the same duties who would meet with the approval of the Board of Supervisors as it was constituted, and this notwithstanding the fact that the highest court of this state has approved the determination of the Appellate Division reversing the action of the Board of Supervisors removing the present County Superintendent from office.

SAYS WIFE TORTURED HIM

Herbert Hurd, 77, is shown in a Kansas City hospital displaying the injuries which he told police resulted from torture inflicted on him by his 24-year-old wife, whom he is charged with killing. Her object in burning, stabbing and beating him, he said, was to make him reveal a hidden fortune and confess relations with a neighbor woman. (Associated Press Photo) himself from the previous 60 minutes of standing. He paused slightly to give the stenographer a chance to freshen his machine with more paper, and then went on. With arms crossed, one hand at his vest pocket, and the other holding a document, Wicks began to read the 8-page discourse of Judge Crasper, who delivered the prevailing opinion of the Third Appellate Division when the Loughran case was at this stage of the game. He placed upon the record this lengthy passage from the Official Edition of Law Reports and Session Laws.

At time 12 minutes before his time limit was up he received a warning from Senator Joseph Esquiro, who was presiding. But with the greatest nonchalance he picked up the Flemming brief, used in the Court of Appeals case, and started to read that off. Senators, who had begun to return by this time, eyed him suspiciously, and threw up their hands when Wicks brought into view the two 1100-page documents embracing the entire proceedings of the past year, beginning April 27.

During one point of the debate which was entirely a one-man affair as no one attempted to answer him, Wicks plainly indicated his opinion of President Roosevelt, who said of him, "I always thought Roosevelt a faker."

The reason that only 12 registered voters in opposition to the bill was due to the departure of several Republicans who were anxious to return to their homes. Even if they had been present they would not have been helpful in defeating the measure, as the Democratic members have a majority. The bill was passed with one vote to spare.

Although during the two-hour outpour of words many Democrats pleaded with Wicks to stop, he refused to do so. He commented later, "They'll remember Ulster county as long as they live." So many repetitions were made in the voluminous text of Wicks' argument that the senators began to learn some of the phrases by heart.

Wicks felt that he was cut short on the two hour limit, as he contended that he did not begin his debate until 3:10, but the chair ruled that it had started at 2:30. George R. Fearon, Republican leader, rose to debate the issue, but it was undebatable, and the Lieutenant Governor's decision was final.

Next Step.

The bill now goes to the Assembly for concurrence. J. Edward Conway, Ulster county representative having returned from Kingston, who was in the Senate Chamber during the afternoon's discussion will fight the measure there. The fact that after two hours of arguing against this bill that not a single Democratic vote was given over clearly indicates that it will receive similar treatment in Conway's assembly chamber. It is expected to be passed next week and will then be sent to the governor for final signature. Governor Lehman vetoed a Monroe county political measure last month, and if this can be taken as an indication of his feelings that the Republicans charge "ripper legislation," the Ulster county bill, which has caused statewide recognition by its dealings this afternoon, may be vetoed.

France Reinforces Her Advance Positions on Franco-German Front

Nancy, France, April 5 (AP).—The Franco-German frontier teemed with warlike activity today as France moved reinforcements to her border fortifications and linked her chain of steel and concrete fortresses with barbed wire and trenches.

Approximately 32,000 troops, belonging to the Sixth, Seventh and 20th Army Corps, stationed at Metz, Besson and Nancy, were rolling up to the advance positions.

Added to the forces transferred from the Italian frontier, the reinforcements will increase the strength of the border garrisons stretched from Switzerland to Belgium by about 50,000 men.

The troops were put to work at once building barbed wire obstacles and digging trenches along undefended stretches between the new concrete blockhouses and forts.

At the same time several thousand reservists, now carrying out exercises in the vicinity, are being instructed with active army units in the duties they will be called upon to perform in wartime as "covering forces."

In connection with the army staff's entire plan to tighten up frontier defenses and make them impregnable in case of attack, experiments were carried out today with warning sirens to determine their efficiency in spreading an alarm. The sirens are similar to those used in Paris as a warning to the civil population of the approach of danger from the air.

At least ten thousand men in the Metz region are being used to strengthen the fortifications and aid the reservists to become familiar with their functions should they be called upon to man the frontier defenses.

It was reliably reported the superior military committee of the chamber of deputies is planning a program through which the eastern frontier can always be covered in case of sudden attack by a mass of about 400,000 men.

Authorities were maintaining strict secrecy over the troop movements, but asserted reports of large transfers were "exaggerated."

S. Anthony Was Called Founder of Asceticism

S. Anthony or Antony was born at Coma, Upper Egypt, about 291 A. D. and died about 356. He was an Egyptian abbot, called (by Athanasius) the founder of asceticism, according to a writer in the Indianapolis News. He early adopted an ascetic mode of life, and in 285 retired altogether from the society of men, living first in a sepulcher, then for 20 years in the ruins of a castle, and finally on Mt. Colzim. His sanctity attracted numerous disciples, whom he gathered into a fraternity near Fayum, which at his death numbered 15,000 members. He was a friend and supporter of Athanasius. He was often (according to his own belief) tempted in his solitude by the devil, who appeared in a great variety of forms, as a friend, a fascinating woman, a dragon, and once broke through the wall of his cave, filling the room with roaring lions, wolves, bears, hyenas, serpents and scorpions—scenes frequently depicted in Christian art. His bones, discovered in 561, and taken first to Alexandria, then to Constantinople, and finally to Vienne in southern France, are said to have performed great wonders in the Eleventh century, during an epidemic of "St. Anthony's fire," an erysipelas distemper, also called the "sacred fire."

Some Stars of Long Ago Not Now Seen in Greece

When the astronomers of ancient Greece grouped the stars and found names for them they listed constellations that can no longer be seen from Greece. In this way they supplied Sir James Jeans, the British astronomer, with a proof of a scientific fact discovered long years after they departed this terrestrial planet.

Among the constellations named by the men of Greece 2,500 years ago are some which, although visible then, cannot be seen in Greece today because they never rise above the horizon. The wobble, as it is called, is a movement of the spinning earth in which its axis makes a small circle once in every 26,000 years; in other words, each pole describes a circular path in the heavens at the speed of about a foot a year. This slow movement is caused by the pull of the sun and moon on the bulging equatorial part of our globe.—Montreal Herald.

Unhookable

Not one sea angler in a hundred—perhaps not one in a thousand—has ever hooked a herring. From the trout to the tuna, from the salmon to the shark, almost every fish that swims can be taken with hook and line. The exceptions are very few, but they include the sardine, the pilchard and the American shad. The latter can be taken in salt water with bait, but when they come into fresh water to spawn it is practically impossible to tempt them. With salmon the case is reversed, for thousands of salmon are taken yearly in the rivers of the British Isles, but to take one on the hook in British seas is very rare. Off the mouth of the Costello, a west Irish river, they will sometimes rise to a fly, and there are one or two spots on the Scottish coast where the same thing happens.—Exchange.

The Christ of the Rockies

The statue of the Christ of the Rockies itself is 30 feet high and stands on a 22-foot high base. The outstretched right arm is 14 feet long. Mounted around a structural steel pillar and filled with concrete, the huge figure's total weight is about 75 tons. The enormous size of the statue made it necessary to fashion clay models in several sections. The figure itself is molded from 200 giant blocks of terra cotta, formed out of five kinds of Colorado clay. The blocks are two feet thick and of two colors, tan and marl, and given a ceramic treatment intended to preserve them for centuries. The mounted figure is 1,500 feet above the floor of the canyon. Floodlights are used to illuminate the statue and are visible for miles.

An Odd Ant-Eater

An astonishing animal, the African pangolin, or scaly ant-eater, has no teeth, and, unlike ordinary ant-eaters, its body and tail, instead of being covered with hair, are protected by long, horny scales that overlap each other. This coat of armor serves a purpose other than warding off enemies, for such is its elastic quality that the pangolin can roll itself up into a ball and fall from the top of a tree without blinking an eyelid. On hitting the ground it may bounce from three to four feet.

Paint Brings Color to Lives of the Choctaws

The Choctaw of northern Manitoba never laughs and rarely talks. To the casual observer he is an inscrutable, unobserving human. Yet observes a writer in the Washington Post, there is no sound in his vast wilderness he doesn't hear. The drumming of the partridge or song of the lark by day; the howl of the wolf or the scream of the big cat at night—all carry their message to the Choctaw who is hearing promises to his family. It's a three or four-day walk overland and he is not to be disturbed.

"Strange," says a Royal Canadian policeman, "but in the packs of most of those fellows you will find a quart or half-gallon of paint, usually of a vivid hue, always stout, but they will mix it, leaving out the more essential articles."

Understandable. It means color in the otherwise colorless lives of our more northern primitives. They know nothing of the value of paint as a preservative of materials, judge colors, dye skins or whatever the Norland offers. They demand paint because of the color, smell of cleanliness and the sense of cleanliness it carries.

Formal Approval To Security Bill

Washington, April 5 (AP).—Final formal approval was given by the house ways and means committee today to the social security bill.

The 17 Democrats present voted for a motion to report the measure to the house while the 7 Republicans voted "present." Representative Lamneck (D—Ohio) was absent because of illness.

The Democrats, in a later meeting, however, deferred until later in the day a final decision on whether to ask leaders to let them bring the bill up under a "gag rule." It was indicated that the committee's request would be for rule permitting consideration only of amendments offered from the floor by the committee.

Austria's New Air Force Rumored Soon To Make Appearance

Vienna, April 5 (P).—Unverified reports circulated through military quarters today that Austria's new air force will soon make its first public appearance in conjunction with the government's somewhat hampered rearmament program.

The appearance of the air force was not regarded as likely before the powers' informal approval of Austria's rearmament has been ratified by the formal acquiescence of the St. Germain treaty signatories. This, in turn, was considered subject to the nation overcoming at least three internal snags—the ambitions of the Hapsburgs, the Fascist Heimwehr and a scanty supply of money.

Consequently, the military airplanes will not be seen when the army holds its big spring parade next Sunday.

It was recalled that Austria was acquiring planes from Italy more than a year ago for the purpose of giving the pilots military training. Additional planes have been brought over the Alps since.

Nothing has yet been officially revealed in connection with the air forces but in Graz, which is only a few miles from Phalerhof airfield, observers of aviation activity for the last twelve months estimate that more than 100 planes of various types have been delivered, including a few built in Austrian plants.

The majority of these planes are said to have been dismantled for reassembly later as needed.

Graduate pilots meanwhile have been turned out at the rate of about 10 a month.

The rearmament problem continues to occupy the discussions of political leaders—and they are particularly concerned with the question of what is going to happen to the nation's private armies.

Prince Ernest Von Starhemberg, vice-chancellor, in conferences with leaders of the Tyrolean Heimwehr laid a great deal of blame for the problems of the private army on the disposition of anti-Heimwehr organizations to take in everybody and anybody and give him a uniform and gun.

He particularly denounced the "Freiheitsbund," the organization of volunteers led by former deputy Kutschak of the Christian Social movement, as including many unconverted Communists and Nazis.

A point was given to his attack by an uproar caused in a meeting of the Freiheitsbund in a Vienna suburb last night when cries of "Heil Hitler!" started a free-for-all fight ending in the disruption of the meeting and the hospitalization of one man.

The vice chancellor hinted at the possibility that Austria might declare a moratorium or resort to inflation of its currency, saying: "I am not in agreement with the government's financial policy. It is folly to bleed ourselves while paying interest. Money is lacking for even elementary budget needs and yet we are priding ourselves on our prompt payments. It is beggar's pride."

Hold for Observation

Boston, April 5 (P).—Thomas F. Murphy, 29, a laborer of Cambridge, Mass., was arrested by United States Secret Service agents today on a charge of sending a threatening letter to President Roosevelt and after arraignment was committed to a psychopathic hospital for observation.

Burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Longendyke, and one sister, Mrs. William Longendyke of Kingston.

Irene Kawecki, nine-year-old daughter of Julian and Stephan Kordzikowski Kawecki, died Thursday at Whiteport. Her funeral will be held from the home of her parents Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock and at 10 at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, where a Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Catherine Barringer, one of the oldest residents of the town of Olive, died at the home of her son, Frank A. Barringer, in Shokan, with whom she resided, on Thursday, April 4, after a brief illness, aged 89 years. Surviving are two sons, William L. of Margaretville, and Frank A. of Shokan, one granddaughter, Mrs. Grant Avery of Boiceville, and three great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held in the Shokan Reformed Church on Sunday, April 7, at 2 p. m. Burial in the family plot in West Shokan.

Ellenville, April 5.—Adora Francis died at her home on South Main street on Thursday after a short illness at the age of 79 years. She was born at Slaterville on August 24, 1855, the daughter of John Francis of Wales and Katherine Campbell of Massachusetts. A brother, Gilbert Francis, died on May 3, 1934, and a sister died about three years ago. Her only surviving relative is a niece, Mrs. Gertrude Benedict, of Warwick. Funeral services were held at the Ostrander Mortuary Chapel Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Perry Van Dyke. Burial was in the Old Cemetery.

Mrs. John F. Reedy died in this city this morning after a brief illness. She was born in New York, the daughter of the late John and Mary Sheehan, and had been a resident of Kingston for the past 30 years. She was a woman who was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Gertrude, wife of Walter E. Dutcher, of this city. Funeral services from the late home, 54 Hoffman street, at 9 o'clock Monday morning and thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 9:30 o'clock a requiem Mass will be offered. Burial in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Ellenville, April 5.—Jacob Selz died suddenly at his home on Canal street early Tuesday morning at the age of 50 years. Mr. Selz had conducted a dry goods store on Canal street for several years. He was born on August 15, 1884, at Walkowisk, Poland, and was the son of Abram Selz and his wife, Bertha Naisakowsky Selz. Surviving are his wife, Celia, and two daughters, Rosella and Bertha, who reside at home, and a son, Meyer Selz, of New York city. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Synagogue on Center street, with the burial in the Ellenville Hebrew Aid cemetery, Rabbi Katz conducting the service.

Clintondale, April 5.—Funeral services for Charles Fowler were held on Wednesday afternoon from his late home on the Tuckers Corners road near here at 2:30 with the Rev. Robert Guice, pastor of the Clintondale Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was made in the Highland cemetery. Mr. Fowler died on Monday at his home after a brief illness at the age of 75 years. A native of Ulster county, he had lived here all his life and was a farmer. He leaves to mourn his loss three brothers, Theodore Fowler of Connecticut, Arthur Fowler of Newburgh and John Fowler of Plattekill, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Arthur Rhodes of Clintondale, also four great-grandchildren and a host of friends.

Ellenville, April 5.—Mrs. Marjorie A. Kelt, wife of Floyd Kelt, died suddenly at Middletown on Thursday, March 28, after a short illness at the age of 39 years. She was born November 29, 1895, in this village and was a daughter of Benjamin Fater and his wife, Williamson Cordis Fater. Mrs. Kelt has been a lifelong resident of Ellenville and was a member of the Lutheran Church. Surviving her are her husband, Floyd Kelt, three sisters, Mrs. Frank Rose, of Ellenville, Mrs. Edward Booth of West Haven, Conn., Mrs. Francis Federer of Waukegan, Ill., and three brothers, William Fater of Ellenville, Benjamin Fater of Middletown, and Harry Fater of Los Angeles, Calif., and a nephew, Raynor Rose of Ellenville. The funeral services were held at her late home on Park street, Tuesday at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Oliver E. Cook, pastor of the Lutheran Church. Burial was in the Fandine Hill cemetery.

Charles H. Rhymer died at his home in Arkville Wednesday, April 2, after a lingering illness. Mr. Rhymer was born in this city, son of the late Henry and Caroline Rhymer. At an early age he went to Arkville and served as a clerk in the store of the late Herman Kutter and Samuel Korn. He accepted a position as freight agent at Arkville, for the C. & R. R., which position he held for 25 years. He also served two terms as justice of the peace. He is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Delta Jones of Arkville, four children, Mrs. Peter Grimes, Mrs. Van Greenbush, Miss Addie, of this city, and Mrs. G. S. Budeberg of Everet, Mass., and one brother, George, of this city. Financially he was a member of the odd fellows. Being of a kindly and jocund disposition Mr. Rhymer won a host of friends who will mourn with regret of his passing. He was loved by all who knew him. The funeral will be held from his late home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot at Margaretville, N. Y.

Ellenville, April 5.—Mrs. Ellen Miller Ter Bush, wife of Emory B. Ter Bush, died at her home on Maple Avenue on Monday afternoon after a

British Will Attempt To Restrain France

London, April 5 (P).—Great Britain will do its utmost to restrain France from making the League of Nations council session April 15 a demonstration against Germany's conscription move, official circles said today.

Although the council meeting was called to consider France's appeal against the Reich's rearmament move, it was said Great Britain would insist that negotiations go forward for a general European armaments and security understanding as long as there is any hope of their success.

The scene of the aggressive British peace campaign switched today to Whitehall where a special meeting of cabinet ministers was expected to decide upon the next steps for making the Franco-British peace proposal effective.

After 13 crowded days of talk and travel by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, it now appears to be the British government's responsibility to suggest a line of action to France and Italy.

Eden, who interrupted his air trip home at Cologne last night because of a stomach disorder, was expected to appear before a group of ministers especially interested in foreign affairs to make his report soon after his arrival tonight.

Republicans Are Getting Out of "Red"

Chicago, April 5 (P).—The Republican party, having reduced its deficit by nearly a quarter of a million dollars since the last presidential election, is heading toward the 1936 campaign virtually out of the "red."

Within the next thirty to sixty days, says George F. Getz, national chairman, the party's committee will meet to plan for further contributions.

Mr. and Mrs. William Roosa attended the graduation exercises at the Delhi agricultural school on Thursday night. Their son, Robert, was among those who have completed the course. Robert is now ready for a position as farmer and hopes soon to begin with his life work.

The Ladies' Aid of the Reformed Church met at the home of Mrs. Jesse Markle on Thursday afternoon. After the regular business meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments. The ladies busied themselves with sewing a quilt top.

Mrs. R. J. Service was a visitor at the Albany State Teachers' College last week. She attended a presentation of "The Mikado" in which Miss Anna Service took a part.

On Sunday morning Robert Service and daughter, Janet, motored to Albany to meet her and returned on Sunday night.

Passion Week services this year will be in the nature of union services with the Reformed and Methodist Churches uniting. These services will begin on Monday night, April 15, at 8 o'clock and will continue throughout the week ending with the Friday night service. The first two services will be held at the Methodist Church and the others at the Reformed Church. On Thursday night a community communion service will be celebrated to which all members of the churches are invited. The speakers for the several nights will be announced next week. It is hoped that all organizations of the community will cooperate with the churches in the celebration of the church in the celebration of Christ's life.

The four shops were kept open four hours later than usual last night to take care of the waiting lines.

Two onion growers who stood in the line both said it was the first time in 11 months they had ventured to the barbershop, and their whiskers proved it.

Death On the Gallows.

San Rafael, Calif., April 5 (P).—Death on the gallows, a superior court jury has decided, is the price Alex McKay and Joe Kristy, San Quentin convicts, must pay for kidnapping members of the state prison board last January 16 in an attempt to escape. Each was convicted on 11 counts, including kidnapping and kidnapping for the purpose of robbery, both of which carry the death penalty under California's drastic new law.

Quash Murder Indictment.

London, April 5 (P).—The House of Lords, highest tribunal in Great Britain, today, for the first time in history, quashed a murder indictment against a condemned man.

Meeting of Tree Park Commission

A very important and valuable meeting of the City Tree Commission, Sidney K. Clapp, chairman, was held in the office of Mayor Heiselman on Thursday afternoon, with an excellent attendance of members. The meeting was called for a preliminary planning of park, street and nursery tree planting as well as for the continuing of the removal of dead trees and the trimming of such trees as need it. However, the tree planting was of foremost consideration.

In addition to the members of the lower house, once rejected were tossed back to them to day with the approval of the Senate. The Assembly action in killing the bills requested by Attorney General John J. Bennett to aid the state in prosecuting criminals brought a vigorous protest recently by Republican Minority Leader Irving M. Ives.

Anti-Crime Bills Go Back to Assembly

Albany, N. Y., April 5 (P).—The most important proposals would set up two degrees of perjury and require an advance notice by a criminal of an alibi defense.

Others would make it a misdemeanor to jump bail in misdemeanor cases; deny bail to known criminals pending appeal; invalidate in New York city plotol permits secured upside by gangsters; permit a judge to comment on testimony and credibility of a witness and permit either party to impeach a witness.

Solicitor General Henry Epstein believes the bill setting up the two degrees of perjury "by far one of the best."

He said juries now are often unwilling to convict a man of perjury with respect to a minor crime because of the heavy penalties.

Subsequently, Senate leaders decided to call the companion measures out of committee and the upper house gave them enthusiastic approval yesterday.

Van Deusen Stars As Z.N.P. Five Wins Series From Kendalls, 30-22

The Z. N. P. Sporting Club won from the Kendalls, 30-22, Thursday night at White Eagle Hall in the deciding game of their series that saw Herb Van Deusen in top-notch form. He shot eight fields and one foul for 17 of the Z.N.P. points.

In the first contest between the clubs, starting their series, the Z. N. P. five won 17-12, then bowed to the Olmecs in the next tilt, 30-16. Both of these duels were held at the Municipal Auditorium, last night's game being the only one played on the home court of the club piloted by "Dolly" Tesolo.

The Z. N. P. started in the lead last night, being out in front 3-1 at the end of the first quarter, and stayed in the won throughout. At half time the Teesolomen had a 12-4 advantage and at the termination of the third frame, 21-9.

Next to Van Deusen, Don Kelly and Tatarzewski scored the most points for the Z. N. P. Every and Rhymers led the Kendalls.

"Dolly" Tesolo was a happy man after the game. "We finally got the edge on Eddie Coughlin's boys," he said. "They put us off for a long time, bringing the series on at this late date in the season; but we're satisfied. Beating the Kendalls is something for our boys to be proud of."

In the preliminary to the feature, the Five Fingers posted a 26-22 win over the Pirates, Cooper and Bittner, starring for the winners and Murphy for the Pirates.

City Baseball League Forms, Officers Elected—8 Teams Sign

At the second meeting for the formation of the City Baseball League Thursday evening in the city courtroom of Judge Bernard A. Culloton, eight teams formally signified intentions of competing in the loop this summer and that they would post forfeit money at the next gathering. Thursday, April 12.

The teams listed are: Crystal Beauty Shoppe, Knights of Columbus, Hercules, Schryvers, U. P. A., Rondout Social Club, Berard All Stars, Ad Jones Dairy.

Whether the Forest Packing Company would decide to enter the league could not be determined last night.

Officers elected were as follows: President—City Judge Bernard A. Culloton.

Vice president—Joe Kelly.

Treasurer—William Banks.

Secretary and official scorekeeper—John Hartman.

The elections were unanimous.

Judge Culloton, and Nevers, Banks.

and Hartman being re-elected to the same posts they held prior to last summer's discontinuance of the league. Kelly is the only new officer.

Umpires were chosen as follows: Bill Schwab for behind the bat and Dewey Van Buren for the bases. Frank Murphy was named as alternate.

It was decided that all managers should post their entry fees of $20 at the next meeting and that player lists be handed in to Secretary Hartman by Thursday, April 25.

The league probably will start early in May, with games four nights a week—Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

Not much attention to details was paid at last night's meeting, this being left to the time when the adoption or rejection of the old by-laws takes place. Teams posting their forfeit money next week will be given a week's grace to withdraw from the league if they desire.

Managers will be responsible for players, and will be fined $1 if his team shows up to play not fully uniformed.

Games are to start at 6:15 and clubs not having their full complement of men on hand by 6:30 will be forced to take the field without them.

Locals Tune Up For Renaissance, Visitations Favored 6-5, Tonight

Tonight the Legionnaires will tune up for their big game with the Renaissance club by meeting the Brooklyn Jewels at the 21st Regiment Armory, New York, in the preliminary to the Brooklyn Visitations-Philadelphia Hebrew game in the play-off for the second half title of the American Basketball League.

Captain Carl Hirsch brought to lead his Kinghts to their second victory over the Jewels in the tray and come back to this city furnished for the Renaissance, at the Municipal Auditorium, Thursday night, April 2. The Legionnaires are more than

Ex-Caddy is Favorite And Leads the Field On Augusta Golf Links

Augusta, Ga., April 5 (P)—Tall, handsome Henry Picard, the Hershey, Pa., professional who rode from the caddy ranks to the heights of stardom, led a great field of par-cracking veterans into the second 18 holes of the $5,000 Augusta national invitation golf tournament today.

The iron-nerved youngster, leading money-winner among the winter campaigners, gave old man par a terrific shellacking in the initial round of the 72-hole grind, breaking the competitive course record of 69 with a 67, five under par for the "ideal" layout.

Hot in pursuit of Picard were such renowned marksmen as Gene Sarazen, former American and British champion; Willie Goggan, San Francisco professional who crowned a great round with a hole-in-one on the 145-yard 16th, and Ray Mangrum, a "dark horse" entry from Los Angeles. Each shot a 68 to lead the procession until the Hershey hammerer walked in with his remarkable total.

In the wake came Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., making his second comeback attempt in formal competition. He finished the opening round far back in the field with a 74, two over par.

Jones, showing streaks of tenseness and lack of putting touch, apparently was out of the running, but still was a choice to finish higher than the 13th place he took in the inaugural. He showed flashes of the old time form that carried him to his "grand slam" achievement in 1930, the year he retired from competition.

As the sharpshooting brigade moved into the second 18 holes, the scoreboard showed ten marksmen with sub-par rounds and four registered in the regulation 72 column.

Ruling as favorites were Sarazen, whose odds dropped to a mere 3 to 1, in view of his spectacular 68; Olin Dutra, National Open king, who fired a 70 along with Paul Runyan, National P. G. A. champion; Johnny Revolta, the young Milwaukee pro, and Jimmy Hines of New York.

Craig Wood, runner-up to Smith here last spring, blazed his way to a neat 69 to remain a contender. Hines, another "dark horse," was among the topflighters with a 70.

In the entire 72 holes a year ago only three—Wood, Ed Dudley and Harold McSpaden—were able to reach the mark of 69, while in the first 18 holes this year five equalled or bettered that figure, the competitive record before yesterday's combined assault.

Revival of spring harness racing is bright sign

Lexington, Ky., April 5 (Special)—Revival of spring trotting races here, not seen since 1929, are chalking up for the American harness turf a notable victory in the minds of its dyed-in-the-wool fans who see it as another of numerous signs pointing to a highly successful comeback in the sport.

The fact that trotting events will be held here as the inaugural meeting of the 1935 Grand Circuit, June 22-27, in what is popularly known as the stronghold of the thoroughbred running horse, tends to give officials of the Trotting Horse Club something to chortle about, since it is that once considered slumbering sport that is showing the way to its cousin in horse racing and doing it in the buckwheat of the flat runner.

Harness racing this spring will be held over one of the fastest trotting tracks in the world in the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association mile ring. Wholly reconditioned last summer, with a new grandstand up, the June session on the red clay speedway here is expected to be one of the best of the entire Grand Circuit whizbang of nine cities.

Henry H. Knight, of Chicago, master of Almahurst Stud, of Lexington, and president of the K. T. H. B. A., is actively sponsoring the six-day card which promises reports indicate will bring every speedy trotter and wiggler to the Blue Grass. While sulky-pulling is being revited at the trotting track, the long annually held spring card at the other Lexington track, oldest running horse plant in the U. S., is reported to be somewhat in doubt.

Bowling Queen —By Pap

From the Needle to the Pins

You would never suspect that only bowled nine perfect games, the fingers nimble and feminine enough last about a year ago in Hoboken, N. J., but has averaged slightly more the same that sent a 16-pound bowling ball roaring down the alleys for them to make up in accuracy in nine perfect scores in the last nine.

But they are and they belong to Mrs. Floretta D. McCutcheon, of the women's bowling champion of the country. This 45-year-old western woman, who jumped from her kitchen and sewing room obscurity to bowling fame by defeating the famous Jimmy Smith seven years ago in an exhibition match in Denver, Katherine Rawls, swimming, and Virginia Van Wile, golf.

Fourth Among 238 Tops

All have swept through their respective sports defeating their rivals for leadership fame, leaving a trail of broken records in their conquering wake. Yet Mrs. McCutcheon has out well enough in her own case for she has gained undisputed recognition as Queen of Bowling. She rules bowling fame in the same manner as Helen Jacobs does tennis; Katherine Rawls, swimming; and Virginia Van Wile, golf.

The system certainly has worked out well enough in her own case for she has gained undisputed recognition as Queen of Bowling. She rules bowling fame in the same manner as Helen Jacobs does tennis; Katherine Rawls, swimming; and Virginia Van Wile, golf.

Steadily Over 200 Mark

Two years of concentration and then the defeat of Jimmy Smith by all of whom had to boast at least one 300-game to qualify. Mrs. McCutcheon was the only woman to make her recognized in bowling circles. Since that time she has not competed.

Will She Be 'Queen Helen' Again?

New York (P)—Eventual resumption of a rivalry that was just beginning to develop its full dramatic possibilities when interrupted by even stronger drama is happily anticipated by tennis chiefs as they read of Helen Wills Moody's tentative racket-swinging exercises at her San Francisco home.

It was a little more than 18 months ago that Mrs. Moody, with the score 3-0 against her in the third set of her national final match at Forest Hills with Helen Jacobs, suddenly walked to the umpire's chair and announced her default.

She had injured her back a few weeks before, severely enough to keep her out of the Wightman cup matches.

Even when they solemnly described her injury as "displacement of the fifth lumbar vertebra" no one had any doubt about her eventual return to the courts. She was a strong girl, especially known for her refusal to "overdo" her tennis playing, and carefully watched over by her physician father, Dr. C. A. Willis.

But the months have flown by. Last summer the "other Helen," and Sarah Palfrey and Cora Babcock carried on through the Wightman cup battles and domestic tournaments, culminating in "Jake's" winning her third national title last fall.

Now the experts are being up in two camps on the time-worn subject of: "Do they ever come back?"

Postmen Mercantile Champions, Williams Stars With 859 Total

As Ken Williams pounded out 215 average for four games at Hamer, Erickson's Valleys, Thursday night, the Post Office won the Mercantile League bowling championship by defeating the phoners of the H. F. King Company.

The match was the playoff between the Mailmen, winners of the Thursday night division of the Mercantile loop, and the Kings, who coped the title of the Friday night division.

In turning in his average, Williams hit the pins for consecutive scores of 228, 193, 200 and 238. The Postmen won all but the second game in which the King rollers came out in front by 550 to 511.

Ed Whitaker did the featured bowling for the losers with a high single of 228 and series of 741. The scores:

On The Radio Day By Day

By C. R. DORTCHER

Time is Eastern Standard.

New York, April 5 (P)—Five prelates of the Roman Catholic Church are to make an international plea for world peace in a pre-Easter broadcast now being arranged by CBS in cooperation with the Catholic University of Washington.

The plea will come from three continents and be made by Cardinals O'Connell of Boston, MacRory of Armagh, Ireland, Verdier of Paris, Da Silveira of Rio de Janeiro and Janitzer of Vienna. There will be the necessary translations into English, the program to have an hour at noon-time on April 20.

The same night CBS is to carry the address of Sen. William E. Borah at a banquet of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington. He will be introduced by Grover Patterson of the Toledo Blade, who is president of the society.

U. S. Drives Against
5,000 Bank Robbers

Washington, April 15 (AP)—A special offensive by the federal government against the nation's 5,000 known bank robbers was disclosed today by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

"We are making the same kind of a drive on them as we did on the kidnapers," Hoover said in an interview.

"We have been getting set for some months and are now going forward with increasing momentum."

"At present we are contacting the president of each of the 6,442 banks which are under our protection, asking them to cooperate with us. These banks have deposits of about $31,848,405,000.

"In the first place they are asked to communicate with us right away.

In the event their bank is robbed, they can call National 7117, the old kidnapping telephone number, if they wish.

"And the first thing we tell them is not to touch anything; to leave the settling of the crime free from disturbance for the analysis of our agents."

"Now that we have fast automobiles at our offices and an adequate supply of firearms, we are equipped to go after the robbers if we are informed about a robbery soon enough."

Since the enactment a year ago of the federal bank robbery statute, making the robbery of national banks and member banks of the Federal Reserve System a federal offense, 116 robberies of such establishments with losses of about $503,000 have been investigated by the bureau. Fifty persons have been convicted in federal courts.

Tampico Lighters
Tampico, Mexico, April 5 (AP)—A strike of utility employees left this port without water, electric power or light today. The city's most important industry, oil refining, was hard hit by the walkout, being forced to suspend operations for lack of power. The strike became effective at one minute past midnight last night, immediately plunging the community into darkness. The water situation caused particular concern as several cases of smallpox were reported in the city.

—every man who knows about leaf tobacco—will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette; and this is the kind we buy for CHESTER-
